

CELEBRATING NEW DEAL NEW YORK CITY: PROMOTING A GENDER & RACE INCLUSIVE JOB GUARANTEE 2017 (October 27-28, 2017)

The Seminar on Full Employment, Social Welfare, and Equity, along with the New School for Social Research, the National Jobs for All Coalition are the principal sponsors of a Public Meeting with a dual purpose. It is an occasion to celebrate the publication this Spring of a Map and Guide to New Deal Public Works and Art, New York City that shows that many of the iconic sites that we associate with the City are the results of the famous New Deal work programs that both put jobless men and women back to work and greatly enhanced the nation's physical, environmental and cultural resources--indeed "changed the face of the nation." The second purpose is to advocate a New, New Deal that would "Build Great Things Again" both in New York City and the nation—restore and rebuild our deficient physical, environmental, and human service resources. The program includes a slide presentation by Gray Brechin, founder of the University of CA-Berkeley research project, Living New Deal. that published the Map and Guide and has mapped 13,000 New Deal sites across the Nation; an exploration of a Federal and a New York City Job Guarantee by a panel of distinguished economists who have led current scholarly work on full employment policy; a U.S. Representative who has sponsored or co-sponsored job creation legislation; and the New York City Public Advocate (Invited) whose office is exploring legislation for a New York City Job Guarantee. Honorary chair of the celebration is Professor Franklin D. Roosevelt, III, Emeritus Professor of Economics, Sara Lawrence College and associate of the Seminar on Full Employment.
